Be a part of the Legacy of Little Italy – San Jose

The River Street area of San Jose was the first settlement of Italian Americans to San Jose during the 1870's to 1900. After years of disrepair, we now fast forward to today. Destined to be an exciting but peaceful and beautiful destination for all ages, Little Italy San Jose, has started by filling current lease opportunities in this area, renovating remaining buildings and homes and eventually building its own San Jose Italian Cultural Center.

We will be utilizing the 87 underpass to connect HP Pavilion and the Rivers Street area with the proposed Cultural Center, creating a central location to honor and preserve our heritage and history. Bustling businesses with the beauty of the old country as shown through artwork and landscape done by First Act – Silicon Valley, will blend the beauty of the old country with the excitement of our modern surroundings that have come to be San Jose - Silicon Valley.

There will be three Little Italy Arches around the perimeter of our Little Italy. Cobblestone bricks will be sold and installed in the sidewalks and crosswalks, celebrating the legacy of our forefathers and current families and businesses. These bricks will be a constant reminder of our past, present, and future and an opportunity to honor our heritage and history for generations to come.

Your commitment to preserving our history is a beautiful legacy that will live on with each step taken in our Little Italy – San Jose.
